

HIGH WATERMARKS

In each newsletter, CCAHA highlights a few books or websites we think will be of interest to collections care managers, conservators, and collectors.

MUSEUM REGISTRATION METHODS, 5TH EDITION

Edited by Rebecca Buck and Jean A. Gilmore

Considered the “bible of the museum registrar” since its debut in 1958, Museum Registration Methods provides museums with expert advice on accessioning, displaying, and storing objects and artifacts. This updated, rewritten fifth edition expands on the information in previous versions and includes new special teaching sections.

>> American Association of Museums/516 pages/\$79.95

A VILLAGE LOST AND FOUND: AN ANNOTATED TOUR OF THE 1850s SERIES OF STEREO PHOTOGRAPHS “SCENES IN OUR VILLAGE” BY T.R. WILLIAMS

By Brian May and Elena Vidal

Although he is perhaps best known as a founding member of the rock band Queen, Brian May has had a life-long interest in stereography. May and Vidal, a conservator and photographic historian, researched the stories behind the Thomas Richard Williams stereo photographs depicting life in a small, 1850s English village. They present their findings and the photos in this complete annotated collection, along with the original verse and a stereoscope viewer that makes the images come alive in three dimensions.

>> Frances Lincoln Publishers/240 pages/\$60.00

HISTORYPIN

Here’s a new reason to digitize your old photos. Upload them to the Historypin website and attach them to the map to compare past and current views of a location and to share your stories about what happened there. A global phenomenon, the Historypin project began in June 2010 with the goal of encouraging communication across generations.

>> www.historypin.com

PRESERVING A FAMILY COLLECTION

This past summer, Lee Price, CCAHA’s Director of Development, discovered a full set of his parents’ love letters, exchanged from 1949 to 1951, when his father was just out of the Navy and working in the Hamptons and his mother was attending fashion school in New York City. As a celebration of old letters, photos, and artwork, Price recently launched two blogs: “June and Art” tells the story of his parents’ romance through the letters, and “Preserving a Family Collection” documents his ongoing efforts to preserve his family’s history.

>> <http://juneandart.blogspot.com/>

>> <http://preservingfamilycollection.blogspot.com/>

FIND US ON FACEBOOK CCAHA is now on Facebook! “Like” our page to learn about news from the conservation world and CCAHA lab, view photos and videos of recent treatments, and receive updates on our latest programs.